

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

Serving America's #1 Market

October 12, 2011

Planned Companies serving up 'soup to nuts' course

Planned Companies, a concierge, security services and maintenance provider, is continuing its partnership with Building Operating Management Association (BOMA) to provide a series of educational seminars for property and facilities management professionals in the tri-state area.

ROBERT
FRANCIS

The classes are being held at Planned Companies' O.R.A.C.L.E, New Jersey's first state-of-the-art, hands-on training and educational facility located within its corporate headquarters in Parsippany, N.J. The course, "Foundations of Real Estate Management," was designed to provide targeted training for all real estate professionals. The soup-to-nuts, five-module, 28-hour entry-level course covers the fundamentals of commercial real estate administration, management, building systems, accounting and reporting, contract management, and more.

"It is crucial for real estate professionals to keep on top of the latest information and trends in our industry," said Robert Francis, LEED AP and president of Planned Companies.

"These seminars are designed to be instructive on many levels. They can reinforce on-the-job training for junior and assistant property managers, provide experience and exposure for novices, and act as a refresher for experienced professionals."